FRÉDÉRIQUE HUTTER art concept, together with Florian Bühler, is pleased to present a new, unconventional exhibition project in an attic at Hottingerstrass 10, near the Kunsthaus Zürich.

Under the exhibition title "Vide Grenier - Nouvelle Lune", gallerist Frédérique Hutter and artist Florian Bühler have joined forces to stage a group exhibition in a magnificent, empty attic space in the heart of Zurich. The exhibition space on the 4th floor is left unchanged and the works on display are staged in the found attic charm. It is not only the presentation that is playful, but also the context: the reason for the painter Florian Bühler to act as exhibition curator in this case was his fun project Puzzy.ch, an online shop for art puzzles with painting motifs by contemporary Swiss artists, which he has been running for around three years. During this time, about a dozen painters have come together for this project and are now taking the opportunity to exhibit together for the first time. Accordingly, painting is the predominant medium in this exhibition - supplemented and enriched by works from a number of additionally invited artists, including both a drawing and a sculptural position.

The exhibition title "Vide Grenier - Nouvelle Lune", which pragmatically names the occasion/place and time (exhibition opening on new moon 8th April), alludes to the dark places in our lives, to the forgotten, repressed, useless, perhaps hidden things that are often found in attics. The invitation card is also inspired by the everyday graphics of a French Vide Grenier, a private flea market where the stored items of many attics are brought to light.

The old toys in some attics will not only flash up in some of the works, the art puzzles will also make their own appearance: on Sunday, 14th April, Frédérique Hutter Art Concept and Puzzy.ch are explicitly inviting visitors to do puzzles on site while enjoying coffee, cake and syrup.
